Mr. Trumbull will report in favor of the admission of the Georgia Senators on Monday, and it will give rise to an extended debate. Both the Senators from Georgia are hard at work to secure their admission.

The Committee on Reconstruction has already a large amount of business before it concerning the States of Georgia, Virginia, Mississippi and Texas. It will not formally enter upon an investigation of the affairs of Georgia until after the Congressional recess.

A number of the House Retrenchment Committee will, in view of the facts brought to light in the investigation of whiskey frauds in New York, call officially on Commissioner Rollins, to-morrow and urge him not to give up his present office before the 4th of March.

The Ways and Means Committee is considering the Little or Moorhead Tariff bill and find many of the literary men and leading publishers of the country very hostile to the clauses laying enormous duties on imported books. The Committee are quite in doubt as to what they had better recommend, and will, after the holidays, hear evidence and statements bearing on this question.

Commissioner Rollins, after an interview with General Grant, this afternoon, prior to the General's departure for Chicago, announced that he had now determined to send his unconditional resignation, but has not decided upon the exact day when he should forward it to the President. He will leave it to the President and the Senate to settle between themselves the question of his successor.

The memorial of the Union League Club on the alleged election frauds will be presented on Monday morning in both houses of Congress. Senator Morgan will present it in the Senate. It is said to be an elaborate document, with specifications of charges based on proofs already collected by the club committee, under the supervision of Mr. Jno. H. Weife, and with a schedule attached of tabular statistics of the elections in the city of New York at large, and in several wards and districts for many years past.

An enterprising butcher in Elizabeth, N. J., once made a great hit by affixing to his stand the sign, "General Market." All Elizabeth made haste to buy meat of him, and he was soon on the high road to fame and fortune. A brother butcher, unwilling to see the business monopolized by one man, thereupon produced a sign bearing the legend, "Major General Market." The fickle public immediately deserted their first favorite, and transferred their custom to his ingenious rival—an impressive illustration of the uncertain tenure of popular favor, and the mutability of human affairs.

The cost of creating, establishing, and maintaining the Department of Suffrage, should be estimated with reference to the benefits to flow therefrom; and these benefits should be considered chiefly at the present moment in respect to the evils which the plan proposed is calculated to avert. The evils which threaten us to-day: armed violence at the polls and organized fraud in naturalization, in colonizing, in stuffing the boxes and counting the votes, may be summed up in one word—national death. The matter of dollars or cents does not intervene when the life of the Republic is in issue. We settled that question by the war, even had it not been settled by the common law of all nations from time immemorial.

"A MILLIARDAIRE."—Baron James de Rothschild, who died in Paris, November 15, was the wealthiest and most influential banker in the world. He left a fortune estimated by the French papers at two milliards, that is $2,000,000,000 francs, or $4,000,000,000. Most of this is, of course, in stocks, money and portable securities; but he had also splendid town and country houses, the latter close to the Bois de Boulogne; and 51 other houses in Paris; palaces at Naples, Florence and Turin, and more or less property in nearly every city in Europe.

The Bourbons.

As it may now be regarded as certain that Queen Isabella and her children will be excluded from the throne of Spain, we have in her condition another example of that retributive justice which has followed the race to which she belongs for the last eighty years. The question, who is to be her successor, being yet unsettled, it would be premature to say at present that she will be the last reigning Bourbon sovereign, but in the meantime we give a brief sketch of that celebrated royal house, the history of which the events taking place in Spain invest, just now, with a peculiar interest.

ORIGIN OF THE BOURBONS.

The house of Bourbon, which has given so many sovereigns to France, Spain and Italy, is of French origin, deriving its name from the old lords of the Bourbon, a noble family, which centuries ago held very large landed possessions in the province of Bourbonnais, situated in the center of France. Through the marriage of a member of the Capet family with the Bourbon heiress, the noble house became allied to royalty in the thirteenth century, and about the middle of the sixteenth we find the first of the race on a throne, in the person of Antoine de Bourbon, King of Navarre. Antoine was the father of the gallant and renowned Henry of Navarre, who afterward became King of France under the title of Henry IV. With this celebrated prince begins the history of

THE BOURBON DYNASTY IN FRANCE.

And what a history! Extending from 1589, when Henry IV ascended the French throne, to 1830, when Charles X was driven out of his kingdom by the revolutions of July, it embraces a period filled with events of the deepest interest and of the highest possible importance to the human family. From the accession of Henry IV up to the time of the French revolution there was no break in the succession of the Bourbon line in France. Louis XIII, Louis XIV, XV and Louis XVI were all Bourbons; but taking the first and the last of those five Kings, as regards their qualities as rulers nothing could present a sharper contrast than the character of the first French Bourbon sovereign, Henry "the great" and "good" as his people delight to style him, and that of the unfortunate son of Louis who fell by the guillotine. Whatever the original virtue of the house might have been, by the time that the volcanic outburst of the revolutionary spirit first shook France and tumbled a dishonest throne in the dust, the race has become wofully degenerate. The guillotine did not however finish it in France. From the stormy days of the revolution, and through those of the Consulate and Empire, the two brothers of the unfortunate Louis lived in exile; but when Napoleon fell, the elder of them was placed on the French throne by the allies, under the title of Louis XVIII; a son of Louis XVI, who died while yet a child, in 1795, had been the seventeenth of that name. Louis XVIII had no children, and, on his death, which took place in 1824, he was succeeded by his brother, Charles X. But experience had utterly failed to teach wisdom to this obstinate and tyrannical ruler, who sought to restore the absolutism of the French monarchy, the consequence of which was that a revolutionary outbreak occurred in July, 1830, compelling the King to flee from France and finally to abdicate. The latter he did in favor of his [illegible], Duke of Bordeaux; but the act [illegible] too late to [illegible] his house. Louis Philippe had already been chosen King of the French, and the Bourbons were, to all human appearances, forever excluded from the French throne. The only surviving descendant of Charles, and representative of the alleged claims of the Bourbons to the French throne, is that same grandson, now known as the Count de Chambord, who is forty-eight years of age. He is, of course, an exile, but is regarded as the lawful King of France by the legitimists, whose hopes of a restoration he feeds by occasionally holding levees in kingly style.

THE BOURBONS IN SPAIN.

The establishment of the Spanish Bourbon dynasty originated with Louis XIV. of France, who, in the year 1700, succeeded in placing his grandson, Philip, Duke of Anjou, on the throne of Spain, as Philip I. The descendants of Philip ruled without interruption until in 1808, Napoleon compelled King Charles IV. to resign, and nominated a successor to him in the person of Joseph Bonaparte, the Emperor's brother. Charles died at Rome in 1811, and after the overthrow of Napoleon the eldest son of Charles ascended the Spanish throne as Ferdinand VII. Dying in 1833, Ferdinand left the crown to his daughter Isabella, in whose favor he had set aside, by royal decree, the Salic law forbidding a female to sit upon the throne. The claims of Isabella were contested by Ferdinand's brother, Don Carlos, which gave rise to the Carlist war, but Don Carlos having failed to establish his pretensions, eventually resigned them, and died in 1835. His son, the Count de Montemolin, in 1860 renounced all claim to the throne of Spain. The Bourbon princes of Spain have invariably exhibited all the [illegible] characteristics of their race: foremost among which are a passion for absolute power and a proneness to sensual self-indulgence—and under their pernicious rule every interest, the prosperity of which constitutes the strength and glory of a nation, has dwindled away.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?—There can be no shallower fallacy than is implied in the popular saying, "There's nothing in a name." The old dispute between Nominalists and Realists turned quite as much on a confusion of thought as on a substantial difference of ideas. Names are realities just as much as any other existing fact, and have a life of their own which shows itself in its results. It may be true very often that the rose will smell as sweet by whatsoever name the botanist may choose to designate it. But even when it is indifferent, to begin with, what name you give—and this is by no means always the case—the name once given ceases to be indifferent. Schoolboy nicknames, for instance, invariably hit some actual peculiarity of character or circumstance of department, but they tend to create an impression as well as convey it, and they frequently stick to a man through life. Nor does it at all follow that those who are able to fix a name will necessarily also be able to fix the connotation it shall bear. To take a familiar example, the name of Christian was originally coined as a term of reproach, and the name of Jesuit as a common derivation. But from the first, each of these designations acquired a meaning, if not "clean from the purpose of the things themselves," precisely opposite to what was intended by their respective authors. And to this day it is regarded almost as equally insulting to call a man a Jesuit, as to refuse to call him a Christian. True, there are the widest differences of opinion as to what Christianity consists in, and multitudes who claim the title would repudiate pretty nearly every characteristic, whether of belief or practice, which its etymology would suggest, just as multitudes stigmatize their enemies as Jesuits with as little distinct notion of the meaning of the name as the pious old woman who was so infinitely consoled by that blessed word Mesopotamia. But that only proves the more clearly what we set out by asserting, that there is a great deal in its name, quite apart from what may be its proper significance.

IS VACCINATION A FAILURE?—The head of the Board of Health in San Francisco has taken it upon himself to declare vaccination a failure in checking the small pox in that city. Yet it is said that only 6,000 persons have been vaccinated there, out of the 150,000 population, since the pestilence broke out. Isn't vaccination a failure simply because the people have failed to avail themselves of this remedy? At all events until it shall have been better tried the Health Officer is censurable for saying a word calculated to influence the public against it.

Since the organization of Park street Congregational Church, in Boston, sixty years ago, 36,000 persons have belonged thereto, 200 of whom became foreign missionaries.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

The ninth session of the Marion County Teachers' Association commenced in this city on last Monday and closed yesterday, being regarded by all as the most interesting, lively, orderly, satisfactory and profitable session ever held by this energetic and progressive organization.

The liberal hospitality of the good people of Salem in entertaining persons from distance, will ever fill the sunniest [illegible] in the kindly memory of the most earnest workers in this [illegible] ing and hopeful effort to dethrone the tyranny of ignorance and anarchy which has like the lingering vision of Poe's ominous, gaunt and [illegible] raven, so long beglooomed the common [illegible] affairs of Oregon. This association was organized in March, 1865. Its first three sessions were held quarterly at Salem. SALEM, Jan. 1, 1869.

THE LATE EX-GOVERNOR TOD.—[illegible] letter from the Hon. Wm. H. [illegible] B. Senter, Esq., of Clev[illegible] will [illegible] interest by all, as a most worthy [illegible] the lamented Ex Governor David Tod:

DEPARTMENT OF STATE,
WASHINGTON, No[illegible] 17, 1868.

GEO. B. SENTER, Esq., Cleveland, [illegible]

Dear Sir: I thank you for the [illegible] moved you to advise me of the sudden and lamentable departure of the late David Tod. Mr. Tod, although a distinguished public [illegible] only became known to me in what was [illegible] the most trying [illegible] of the late [illegible] His previous connection with the [illegible] party enabled him to render invaluable [illegible] to our Union administration. He gave me full confidence on the spot, and he [illegible] wards to yield the [illegible] and [illegible] support to the Government. It was the [illegible] services thus rendered the [illegible] President Lincoln, upon my [illegible] to Mr. Tod the office of S[illegible] of the Treasury when Salmon P. Chase [illegible] Few citizens of the United States have left a nobler record. Very truly yours,

WILLIAM H. SEWARD.

PASSING ROUND THE HAT.—In other [illegible], where the [illegible] gets a [illegible] it is [illegible] easier to get a "meetin'-house" full [illegible] to get wherewith to support the laborer who is [illegible] in the world more "worthy of his hire." A preacher in a frontier settlement had been [illegible] ing money for some church object. There were still some twenty dollars wanting, and after vain efforts to make up the deficiency, he [illegible] intimated, as he looked the church door, one day after service, that he [illegible] that said twenty dollars before any of them left the house. At the same time he set the example by tossing five dollars on the table. A [illegible] put down a dollar, another a quarter of a dollar, and so on. The parson read out every now and then, the state of the funds: "That's [illegible] and a half, my friends." "That's nine and a [illegible]." "Ten and six bits are all that are in [illegible], friends and Christian brethren." Slowly it mounted up, "Twelve and a half." "Fourt[illegible]." "Fifteen." "Sixteen and three bits," and so on until it stuck at nine[illegible] dollars and a half. "It only wants fifty cents, friends, to make up the amount. Will nobody make it up?" Everybody had subscribed, and not a cent more was forthcoming. Silence [illegible], and how long it might have lasted it was difficult to say, had not a half dollar been tossed through the open window, and a rough explanatory voice shouted, "Here, parson, there's your money; let out my gal. I'm about tired of waitin' on her."

The cause of the Jews is everywhere thriving in the world, and they are looking forward to better things. This does not mean that they intend to fulfill their own old prophecies and return to build up their restored nationality in Jerusalem; they show no desire to return. Seven Jews have been elected to the English Parliament, and we should not wonder if a few more were sent into the coming Cortes of Spain. The Spanish Bishops, alarmed by the claims of the Spanish [illegible] and other heretics, are about to meet in grand council at Toledo to deliberate and do what they can in such a depressing state of things. But the spirit of liberty and the power of money will do as much in Spain as they have done everywhere else.

A modern Greek scholar, who has been exploring the localities sung of by Homer, and has published much information about them, has come to the conclusion that old Mæonides understood practically the art of war. Napoleon had the same opinion. A small essay on Homer was discovered among his papers, and published about thirty years ago, which is highly interesting, though it proves that the hero of the Alps was only acquainted with the Iliad, and had never read the Odyssey, since he praises Homer for not having thought of the "silly fable" of the wooden horse. Very few persons, indeed, ever did read the Odyssey, now a days, and it is a great pity, for it is as wonderful as the Iliad, though very unlike it.

Crime and its Punishment

The [illegible] Courts [illegible] wholly with [illegible] it to a large extent grows out of indifference to the sacredness of human life These may be thought severe words but we believe they are not a whit too severe for proper characterization of so great an evil Not long ago an old man in this county was brutally murdered and the body left lying in the house while the murderer took his victim's money and other property brought to this city [illegible] He was [illegible] and sent [illegible] to imprisonment for life yet there were many persons who attempted to palliate his crime and thought he had been dealt with too severely Quite recently homicide has been perpetrated in this city evidently the result of deliberation and the perpetrator was sent to the penitentiary for ten years But hardly had the sentence been pronounced when a petition was put in circulation for his pardon and release which was signed by a large number of persons We might enumerate other cases but will pass with the general remark, which is applicable to other communities besides ours that there seems to be a very singular popular sympathy for criminal offenders. But this sympathy must not be ascribed to a wrong source It is not sympathy with crime it proceeds from an excess of pity for those who have fallen into the hands of the law, and a want of thought as to the consequences which surely follow a mistaken lenity for public offenders

We venture to say that the bloody events of Friday night in this city are due in no small degree to the lenity which has heretofore been shown to the perpetrators of like criminal acts. As a community we require to learn that individual reparation for real or fancied wrong is always unsafe and criminal We must teach the doctrine that recompense can be had only under the sanction of law If death is to be inflicted by every one who feels himself aggrieved, human life is not worth an hour's purchase There are men who will seek an opportunity for a quarrel, and afterwards on pretense of settling the grudge take life without scruple The only way of safety is in a rigid enforcement of the law If men commit crime, let them receive the measure of punishment which the law prescribes For the sake of safety and justice we should stifle a misdirected sympathy for guilty offenders A great master thus describes the consequences of this laxity in the enforcement of law

As fond fathers
Having bound up the threatening twigs of birch
Only to stick it in their children's sight
For terror, not to use in time the rod
Becomes more mocked than feared so our decrees
Dead to infliction, to themselves are dead
And liberty plucks justice by the nose

It is abominable that there should be any sympathy for one who takes human life based on the idea that the victim is a person of no consequence who might just as well be out of the way Yet there are occasionally to be seen indications of such a feeling In all these matters there should be a thorough reform It is a sad state of affairs in any community when criminal law cannot be adequately enforced and lest it come to this we should wake up thoroughly on this subject and insist that every crime shall meet its proportional punishment

SEVERE LANGUAGE —The Springfield (Mass) Republican is known as one of the most "conservative" of the journals that profess to support the principles of the Republican party It has usually been able to find some palliation of excuse for Johnson's acts but when it comes to his extraordinary proposition in regard to the public debt, it is constrained to say "There is one portion of the message for which we cast about in vain for any explanation except that of thorough and radical dishonesty We believe that Mr Johnson has never been [illegible] in these columns but we put it [illegible] to our readers whether there is any other term to apply to a man who could at once propose such a deed of shame, and strike such a dastardly blow at the national credit which he is bound by oath and by every consideration of honor and patriotism to support, as is contained in Johnson's proposition to confiscate the interest due the Government creditors"

OUTRAGES IN THE SOUTH The rebel reports make a great ado about alleged outrages by the negroes in the South [illegible] of course it is a variation of the same old story of outrages in which the blacks invariably get the worst of it We hope our readers have perused the annual reports of Generals Rousseau, Thomas and Reynolds on the state of affairs in the Southern States By consulting these [illegible] authorities we find that the Ku Klux Klan is [illegible] but a veritable society composed of bodies of [illegible] men extending through every State plotting in secret, and executing its decrees [illegible] that civil law everywhere [illegible] this [illegible] of menace and assassination that in many places to quote from Gen Reynolds' report "men have been [illegible] from the speaker's stand as those selected [illegible] and that the murder of negroes is so common as to render it impossible to keep an accurate account of them"

PERTINENT QUESTIONS At the Emancipation Celebration on Friday evening, a colored girl of this city sang before the [illegible] exhibiting musical powers which [illegible] have never been surpassed [illegible] in Portland The oration delivered [illegible] was also an able production and the poem was quite as good as the average of such compositions on public occasions In view of these exhibitions of talent we expect to find our Democratic contemporaries indignantly demanding a categorical answer to the question, "Is this a white man's Government"

FOLLOWING SUIT [illegible] Herald is [illegible] severe on General Grant [illegible] calls him Hiram the name is applied to him at least half a [illegible] of that paper This [illegible] the Herald's editorials

A Mournful Subject

The Emancipation celebration [illegible] As far as we [illegible] the task [illegible]

Of course not The subject is one which [illegible] Democrats and [illegible] dwell upon But we wish our neighbor had [illegible] something like this [illegible] Just think what [illegible] Court House [illegible] Democrats [illegible] of the blissful [illegible] of the peculiar institution [illegible] has done its baleful work Likely girls nearly white will never more be exposed for sale the music of the blood hounds will nevermore be heard pursuing the panting victim, all the beauties of the patriarchal system are destroyed forever Instead of all this what do we see? Niggers are allowed to enjoy the earnings of their labor they hold celebrations [illegible] their children to school [illegible] superiors We have neither [illegible] inclination to dwell on this dark prospect This we imagine is the black channel in which the ravings of our neighbor would run if he would only give way to his feelings But as he hasn't the heart to write on the subject the imagination of his readers must be taxed to supply what he would say

EXTRA SESSION The [illegible] continues to clamor, in connection with the Copperhead sheets for an extra session of the Legislature If the Governor should determine to commit political suicide to bring great damage on the Republican party and mightily exalt the power of Democracy he would probably take that paper's advice The only reason why Democrats want a session is to have a chance to make capital for their party and if there are any Republicans who want a session they are very few in number and their desire proceeds entirely from the fact that their hearts are set upon the Treasury As Democratic partisanship brought things into this shape we would let them stand so until they can be righted in the regular way We are not ready to endorse the conduct of the Democrats during the late session to condemn the action of our own political friends and to fall down before the insulters of Congress and the repealers of the National Constitution to ask them to forgive us for their delinquencies Nor shall we do it Therefore we oppose an extra session We shall not confess because we do not believe that we were wrong and the Democrats right, from the start Oregon has already been humiliated and disgraced before the whole nation by the Ku Klux Legislature and if that body meets again no one can predict the mischief it will do What can be expected from men who have no stake in the country and no interest in its good name And men of this description are those who controlled the Legislature during the late session and who want another opportunity to retrieve their desperate fortunes

AGRICULTURAL PROSPECTS The Commissioner of Agriculture reports very favorably of all our harvests especially those of the South which is recovering in a remarkable degree some of its former conditions The present yield of cotton there is as great as that of the year 1850 and about half the amount of the extraordinary products of 1859 and 1860 The receipts in cash for the year 1867 were larger in figures than those of 1860 though of course allowance must be made for the different values of the dollar In the last two years the product in sugar has been doubled, and rice cultivation is thriving in nearly the same proportion Nature is still the same in the South and all her elements of plenty and prosperity are as numerous and flourishing as ever

INTELLIGENT JOURNALISM The Copperhead papers have been alleging that Harriet Beecher Stowe who has bought a plantation in Florida has changed her views in regard to slavery and the negro and that she has become quite Democratic in her ideas on this question The Oregon Herald which is always behind the times with its information repeats the story and makes it the basis of a leading article notwithstanding the fact that Mrs Stowe some time ago wrote a letter utterly denying the statement and asserting that since her residence began in the South she has seen enough to convince her of the truth of all she wrote in Uncle Tom's Cabin

PUGET SOUND

[From Olympia papers]

Rev H K Hines has gone to the Federal Capital on business connected with the Columbia river and Puget Sound Railroad

The Quartermaster of the Department of the Columbia has received instructions to sell the Government buildings at Fort Steilacoom It has been suggested that the people of the Territory ask through their Delegate that the buildings be donated to the Territory for use as an insane hospital This is a good move and we hope the initiative steps will be at once taken to secure the beneficent object An improvement should be made in the treatment of our insane people

A settler named Curtis, who held a land claim on Kuper Island near Salt Spring Island was discovered [illegible] in his cabin with his back [illegible] and his throat cut from ear to ear The latest accounts state That the deceased was named [illegible] Curtis at the [illegible] was absent at the time that the deed was committed Upon his return to the cabin he found his gun standing [illegible] and on entering saw Curtis weltering in his own blood, which had [illegible] from a gunshot wound in his temple and from a horrible gash in his throat made with a butcher knife which lay all bloody on the table The perpetrators are believed to be Indians An inquest held by Mr M[illegible] J P resulted in the return of a verdict of death from wounds inflicted by some party or parties unknown Deceased was a young man of the highest respectability, and had settled down on the Island for the purpose of farming

FROM THE NORTH

VICTORIA Jan 1 — The American bark De[illegible], 450 tons burthen Capt J R [illegible] from Sitka in ballast bound for Port Townsend for a cargo of lumber ran ashore at Esquimalt light house where she now lies on her beam end It appears that when approaching her destination a heavy gale sprung up from the southeast and for the safety of the vessel and crew the captain thought it prudent to make for Esquimalt harbor A heavy squall struck the vessel when near the light house and unfortunately the vessel did not answer her helm and went ashore [illegible]

VICTORIA Jan 2 —Mr Hankin the newly appointed Colonial Secretary of British Columbia arrived here from England yesterday

The steamer [illegible] sailed yesterday morning for Portland

The editor of the Vancouver paper writes from Astoria The late survey of the Columbia river has demonstrated that its mouth is not so dangerous as represented, and no worse than the entrance to New York harbor So the Oregonians need not [illegible] rock in the Columbia river as useless Railroads however numerous cannot supersede river navigation [illegible] away with the great highways for commerce that Nature has formed

UNITED STATES BONDS IN EUROPE The Echo [illegible] published in Paris has an interesting article on the operations in United States bonds in France and Germany This journal states that of upwards of $800 000 000 worth of American securities held in Europe four fifths at least are held in Germany The daily sales of United States bonds at Frankfort Hamburg Bremen and Berlin, will, it is asserted, compare favorably with the transactions in Wall street and at Rotterdam and Vienna the sales are larger than in London In Paris the purchases are small and are principally effected by Americans residing or passing through that city The Echo states however, that while the European securities have fluctuated greatly in value, the United States bonds continue to advance steadily and at present are quoted on the Bourse at a high figure This appreciation of the high value of American securities is attributed to the Monthly Circular issued by the Treasury Department showing the financial condition of the country and which is sent to all the banks of Europe

A SENSIBLE JUDGE – Baron Bramwell in a recent trial at Leeds, England instructed the jury to give moderate damages for a breach of promise of marriage He said it was a most mischievous thing to frighten a man into marrying a woman [illegible] by heavy damages It was much better for the girl that he should find out his dislike before than after

Homicide.—About [illegible] o'clock on the evening of Jan [illegible] Michael Malone was shot and killed by [illegible] at Conder's saloon on North Front Street. Malone was a longshoreman and had been engaged during the day in assisting to unload the steamship Ajax. At the time of the attack he was sitting in a [illegible] smoking his pipe. Hayden with whom he had [illegible] quarrel previously with a man named Sargent, entered the room and [illegible] Malone addressed him—"You d—d [illegible]" or words to that effect and fired at him with [illegible] Weston pistol [illegible] fall took effect upon the [illegible] of Malone hit [illegible] near the spine just below the shoulder blade [illegible] through his body [illegible] on the right breast. Malone who had risen to his feet and turned to [illegible] assailant [illegible] to escape fell [illegible] and, without uttering a word expired almost [illegible]. At this instant other persons rushed into the room and taking away Hayden's pistol secured him [illegible] and Constable Hudson who was [illegible] called, soon came in and arrested [illegible] the next [illegible] before Recorder Bixby. Hayden [illegible] of murder pleaded not guilty and waiving an examination was committed to answer before the next grand jury. The charge of aiding and abetting the [illegible] lodged against Sargent will be examined this [illegible]. An inquest was held upon the body of the [illegible] by Justice Waterman acting as Coroner. The following is the verdict of the jury. We the jury, summoned by J O Waterman Justice [illegible] acting as Coroner in and for said county [illegible] the body of Michael Malone found lying dead on [illegible] of Front and B streets in the city of Portland, and after hearing the evidence, give [illegible] the deceased came to his death by a pistol [illegible] by the hand of James Hayden on the said day. Dated January 1st, 1869 (Signed) Wm [illegible], Alex Stewart, D W Donnavan, [illegible], C C Bradley [illegible], the keeper of the saloon who was in the [illegible] the time of the firing thinks he heard the [illegible] as Hayden entered the back room and [illegible] that at the first attempt to fire the pistol [illegible]. The quarrel above mentioned as existing between the parties was concerning $30 which Hayden [illegible] owing him by the deceased, but nobody had [illegible] that it was of such a nature as to lead to [illegible] result. The pistol used by Hayden is believed to be the property of Sargent, and it is also thought [illegible] knew in advance of the use to which Hayden [illegible] put it. The examination, to-day, may throw light upon that matter. Malone was regarded as a peaceably disposed man, was about forty years of age and a member of the Emmet Guard. Hayden is about twenty five a man of some intelligence [illegible] temper. We know nothing of Sargent [illegible] we wish to say anything further of his [illegible] with the bloody deed, in advance of his examination.

[illegible] May Concern—For the benefit of a pious [illegible] of the Advocate who signs himself "A [illegible]" were written in full, it would be "Ass"—the following extract from his contribution of [illegible]: "Permit one of your subscribers to express [illegible] part of the disgust he felt at 'the indecent picture in the local column of the Daily Oregonian 30th ult., bringing into view the performance [illegible] rdy-gurdy cellar into which one of the able, [illegible] correspondents of that journal has just [illegible] his nights * * * * But [illegible] are now not only open and permitted, but [illegible] are brought under the nostrils of [illegible] by such publications as the one referred to [illegible] men and women see that such an exhibition [illegible] of vice, receives its only and appropriate [illegible] Considering the great influence of newspapers [illegible] public sentiment the conservators of morals [illegible] watch with a jealous eye," etc. Now the Gods [illegible] that this self righteous Pharisee was merciful [illegible] let us off with the expression of only "a small [illegible] he felt." The result must have been [illegible] he mocked the whole of it. Poor fellow [illegible] his sensitive [illegible] must have sustained in [illegible] of that "obscene picture;" and what a state [illegible] in, even yet, with the greater part of the "vile [illegible]" still on hand! Won't somebody be kind [illegible] to get him into an easy chair? And won't some [illegible] bring a smelling bottle? and won't somebody get a [illegible] infernal [illegible] away from under his [illegible] nostrils? Gently, gently, with the [illegible] and "conservator of morality," for he is but [illegible] who hath a gentle voice, softly [illegible] rhyme Move slowly, tread gingerly, speak [illegible] Draw down the window shade that the breeze [illegible] his "jealous eye," and close the door [illegible] may not play "flaunting" tricks [illegible] hair." There, there perhaps now the [illegible] person of the self [illegible] "good man" are [illegible] to bear a little strain of another sort, [illegible] to ask this canting prude: How [illegible] did you read the [illegible] of J [illegible] among the hurdies? Have you [illegible] and have you now got it carefully [illegible] in [illegible] pocket? Have you expelled any [illegible] desire, in consequence of your evidently [illegible] of the "obscene picture," to visit ye hurdy [illegible]. You see, Mr Snip didn't say anything [illegible] cellar"—you did; and by that token we must [illegible] you of knowing quite well where to find the hurdy [illegible], now, you masculine prude, when your [illegible] the sin of drink [illegible] or of gambling, or of [illegible] vice, do you think it a "flaunting of vice," and [illegible] always get a big disgust on, and do you call it an [illegible] picture and do you think it [illegible] as a "good [illegible]" an "appropriate [illegible]"? Do you [illegible] it trying to make vice attractive? Do you feel [illegible] picture is calculated to seduce you or [illegible] into that particular vice? Please, let us hear [illegible], on these few queries, and pray tell us how do [illegible] now, and how are your poor, "Mortally" [illegible]

[illegible] Sunk.—On Friday [illegible] a while the steamer [illegible] was on her downward trip from Oregon City [illegible] was thrown by a violent whirlpool upon [illegible] above Milwaukie, and stove so that she sank [illegible] minutes. She had on board about twenty tons [illegible] eighty boxes of apples. Some portions of [illegible] floated out of her as she settled down in the [illegible] afterward picked up and the loss resulting [illegible]. The steamer hung upon the rock for a [illegible], until her stern settled down, when the [illegible] swung off. She went down astern till her [illegible] out of sight and in this condition she floated [illegible] aground near the village, where she was yet [illegible] accounts. She had on board at the time [illegible] several passengers, all of whom were [illegible]. Capt. Howe received some [illegible] by the fall of a tier of apple boxes upon [illegible] emerged from the hold where he had been [illegible] the hole in the [illegible] hull. The real [illegible] boat, beyond the sinking, was ascertained [illegible] and no difficulty is anticipated in raising [illegible] in running order again within this week [illegible] the Carrie will supply her place. When [illegible] accident, Mr Levi Knott, proprietor of the [illegible] ferry boat, immediately started with the [illegible] fears of the Wasaf, and succeeded in [illegible] freight.

[illegible]—We clip the subjoined items from [illegible] Mr. B. M. Washburn, of Vancouver, [illegible] the [illegible] of his appointment as postmaster. We understand that he will qualify and will no doubt take possession at the end [illegible] which commenced on the 1st of January. [illegible] Lodge, No 3, I O O F of this city, elected [illegible] the following officers for the ensuing [illegible] Jacob Thompson, N G; H G Struve, V G; [illegible] Rec Sec'y, J L Rankin, Treasurer, G W [illegible] Per Sec'y. They will be installed on Saturday. The lodge is reported to be in a prosperous [illegible]. The ball given under the auspices of [illegible] No. 3, I. O. O. F., at Oro Fino Hall [illegible] eve, was a complete success. The attendance was [illegible] large and more than ordinarily [illegible]. Washington Lodge, No 4 A F & A M [illegible] following officers for the ensuing term on 23d [illegible] Fletcher W M, J Davidson S W, John [illegible] D Stagget, Treasurer, Chas Lee, Sec'y, [illegible] S D; [illegible] J D, J W Nichols and [illegible]. Hon. [illegible] Holmes, United [illegible] for Washington Territory, well and favorably [illegible] as an energetic and talented gentleman [illegible] a "bed-rock" Republican leaves, with his [illegible] Washington, on the Ajax. Mr H[illegible] goes [illegible], and will remain some months.

Affray.—On Friday night Joseph Bertrand [illegible], was stabbed seriously in a room at the rear [illegible] Orleans Hotel under the following circumstances [illegible] learn them: Bertrand, while [illegible] the door of a room occupied by a half-breed [illegible] known as "Cowlitz Mary," and asked admittance [illegible] door not being opened he broke [illegible] Upon reaching the inside of the doorway [illegible] by a man whom he could not recognize in the [illegible] who ordered him to leave. Bertrand not heeding [illegible], the man seized and pushed him out of the [illegible] the same time stabbing him with a long knife [illegible] a wound of several inches in length along [illegible] side. Fortunately, however, for the wounded [illegible] proved to be only in the flesh, outside the [illegible] he is now pronounced out of danger. Dr. [illegible] called, dressed the wound, but the following [illegible] man was removed to the dispensary of Drs [illegible] Kallenberg and placed under their care. As [illegible] received the stab, Bertrand rushed into the [illegible] of the hotel exclaiming "I'm stabbed!" when [illegible] made in the woman's room for the man who [illegible] he was not found.

Items.—The Mountaineer of Jan 1st says [illegible] pleasure of a call from Messrs. James H [illegible] and [illegible] M Thomas of Ochoco Valley [illegible]. They represent everything in that section as [illegible] prosperous condition. Last winter only six [illegible] settled in the valley while now they number [illegible] fifty-five persons all told. Next summer they [illegible] increase their population by immigration [illegible] or more. The weather for the past week [illegible] very disagreeable, especially to those afflicted [illegible] of the lungs. Mr Frank Dodge informs [illegible] the O S N Co intend building the telegraph [illegible] this winter should the weather permit. [illegible] Christmas tree at the Congregational church [illegible] evening we are informed was very pretty. We were sorry that we were too busy to attend [illegible] the distribution took place. Almost everybody [illegible] received presents. The Sunday School [illegible] Mr Abrams was presented with a beautiful [illegible] watch chain by the scholars of the Sunday [illegible].

[illegible] Literary Association.—At the annual election [illegible] of the Catholic Library and Christian Doctrine [illegible] Portland, the following gentlemen were elected [illegible] the ensuing year. President, D J Malarkey [illegible], P O C Newell; Recording Secretary, [illegible]; Corresponding Secretary, J F Atkinson [illegible], M L Herman; Librarian, J R Wiley, [illegible]; Executive Committee [illegible] Kast, D O Regan and E Cahalin.

New Year Eve Balls, given respectively by Prof [illegible] the Washington Guard's Armory, Mr [illegible] the American Exchange and the lady friends [illegible] Guard at the Guard's Armory, were very [illegible] and were among the happiest parties of [illegible] given in this city.

[illegible]—The new church at the corner of Sixth [illegible] streets, we learn, was formally opened by Dr [illegible] yesterday.

On [illegible] evening [illegible] the beautiful drama of [illegible] repeated to a full house. [illegible] Though its plot is easily enough [illegible] shows up on the stage and full of [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] years [illegible] with a father who hates the whole white race with all the bitter [illegible] [illegible] Miss [illegible] made her [illegible] Robinson as Starlight [illegible] was a character to which the audience took most kindly. She is a very pleasing [illegible] Camille was [illegible] a very [illegible]. To-night will be performed East Lynne, a piece which has scarcely a superior in affecting and attractive qualities [illegible].

Week of Prayer.—The ministers of the several evangelical churches [illegible] in response to a call [illegible] of the world [illegible] observe a week of prayer. Noonday Prayer Meeting, beginning promptly at 12 o clock and lasting for half an hour, on Monday, in the Congregational church; Tuesday, in the Methodist church; Wednesday, in the Lutheran church; Thursday and Saturday, in the Presbyterian church; Friday, in the Baptist church.

Monday evening, 7½ P M, in the Congregational church. Topic for prayer and conference: "The Religious Interests of the Pacific Coast."

Tuesday evening, in the Methodist church. Topic: "Need of Increased Spirituality of the Church."

Wednesday evening, in the Lutheran church. Topic: "Religion in Families and Schools."

Thursday evening, in the Presbyterian church. Topic: "Christian Union."

Friday evening, in the Baptist church. Topic: "Christian Missions."

Saturday evening, in the Presbyterian church. Topic: "The General Outpouring of the Holy Spirit."

The public are cordially invited to attend these meetings.

The Emancipation Celebration.—The meeting of colored people, at the Court house Saturday evening to celebrate the anniversary of the emancipation of their race from slavery in the United States, was attended by a large number of colored people as participants, and a much larger number of whites as spectators. The audience room was literally packed full. We did not have the fortune to be there but we hear on all sides the proceedings spoken of as being very creditable. The Emancipation Proclamation was read; prayer was offered; an oration was delivered by Rt. Rev. Bishop Ward; a poem was recited and several pieces of music were performed by a young girl and there were some other exercises of which we have heard no special account. The musical performances of the girl—Miss Merclee—are spoken of as being quite remarkable not only for the correct musical education they indicated but for the sweetness and compass of voice displayed. The oration by Rev. Mr. Ward was a practical sermon on the colored "situation" and it is said contained much good sense and good advice to his colored friends. There were present a good many colored people from other parts of the State. The celebration will no doubt be useful in its effects to both white and colored.

Funny.—Our old friend and fellow sufferer, Coll. Van Cleve, of the Albany Register is away from home without a protector. His friends in Albany need not, however, have any present fears for his safety as he is in this city and not, so far as we can discover, in any danger of falling into the hands of the police or any other man. The [illegible] of the ancient and honorable order of [illegible] will see that he has while he stays, enough to eat and drink and if the proper [illegible] will box him up and send him back, marked "this side up with care"—keep dry. Van is making a good paper of the Register, and we, therefore, feel solicitude enough for his safety to assist in taking care of him, though we do not belong to the ring above mentioned.

In Memoriam.—The following resolutions were adopted at a meeting of the Emmet Guard at their Armory Saturday evening:

To Resume.—The Portland Academy and the several Public schools of the city will be re-opened to-day.

Church History.—The Deseret News (Mormon) is publishing the history of the Mormon Church written by Joseph Smith the Prophet, in 184[illegible]. It will include Smith's recollections from the 21st of September, 1823, when he says the Lord appeared unto him, until the time of writing. The following extracts will show how Joseph came to be a prophet, what the angels said and showed him:

I was told that I was chosen to be an instrument in the hands of God to bring about some of his purposes in this glorious dispensation.

I was also informed concerning the aboriginal inhabitants of this country, and shown who they were and from whence they came; a brief sketch of their origin, progress, civilization, laws, governments, of their righteousness and iniquity and the blessings of God being finally withdrawn from them as a people was made known unto me. I was told there were deposited some plates on which were engraven an abridgement of the records of the ancient prophets that had existed on this continent. The angel appeared to me three times the same night and unfolded the same things. After having received many visits from the angels of God unfolding the majesty and glory of the events that should transpire in the last days, on the morning of the 22d of September, A. D. 1827, the angel of the Lord delivered the records into my hands.

The records were engraven on plates which had the appearance of gold; each plate was six inches wide and eight inches long and not quite so thick as common tin. They were filled with engravings in Egyptian characters, and bound together in a volume as the leaves of a book with three rings running through the whole. The volume was somewhere near six inches in thickness, a part of which was sealed. The characters on the unsealed part were small and beautifully engraved. The whole book exhibited many marks of antiquity in its construction and much skill in the art of engraving. With the records was found a curious instrument which the ancients called "Urim and Thummim," which consisted of two transparent stones set in the rim of a bow fastened to a breast plate.

Through the medium of the Urim and Thummim I translated the record, by the gift and power of God.

The [illegible] who have [illegible] confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise which commands here and in the markets of the Interior a relatively higher price excites the cupidity of some manufacturers and every day he sees increasing the number of those who by counterfeit or imitation of his mark seek to deceive the public palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. WOLFE'S
SCHIEDAM SCHNAPPS.

TO THE CITIZENS OF OREGON.

I BEG LEAVE TO CALL THE ATTENTION OF THE citizens of Oregon to my celebrated AROMATIC SCHIEDAM SCHNAPPS, a medicine Diet Drink of eminently salutary qualities manufactured by myself, exclusively at my factory at Schiedam in Holland.

In Gravel, Gout and Rheumatism, In Obstructions of the Bladder and Kidneys its efforts are prompt decided and invariably reliable.

It is now some twenty years since the Proprietor first introduced it to the American public and during that time he has received over 3,000 letters from physicians endorsing it as the purest liquor they have ever used in their practice.

It is made from barley of the finest quality, selected with great care from the products of the most celebrated grain growing districts. It is flavored with the [illegible] of the aromatic juniper berry of Italy, and is rectified by a peculiar process which expels from the spirit every acrid particle.

As a means of preventing and correcting [illegible] and often dangerous effects produced on [illegible] and bowels by a change of water—a visitation to which travelers new settlers and all unacclimated [illegible] are peculiarly liable—the

SCHIEDAM AROMATIC SCHNAPPS

Will be found absolutely infallible; while, in cases of dropsy, gravel, obstructions of the kidneys [illegible] of the bladder, stricture, dyspepsia and general debility, it is recommended most emphatically by the most distinguished members of the medical profession.

It is put up in quart and pint bottles in cases with the name of the undersigned on the bottle and cork, and a fac simile of his signature on the label. For sale by all respectable druggists and country merchants.

Are you WEAK DEBILITATED NERVOUS! Is your sleep disturbed! Do you have palpitation of the heart or an inclination to melancholy! [illegible] of such nature require a prompt DIURETIC which will be found in

[illegible]

The New York [illegible] of a Boston paper says:

The fact that General Grant passed a Sabbath at West [illegible] and did not attend church, though the [illegible] situated near him, has been commented on by the press generally. It is somewhat a singular fact that as far as it is known no President of the United States since the days of Washington has been a communicant in a church. John Adams was the representative of the [illegible] of his day. Jefferson was styled a free thinker. An attempt was made when Jefferson was a young man to make the Episcopal Church the established [illegible] of Virginia. [illegible] preached a sermon in the presence of Jefferson [illegible] what he called the monstrous connection of Church and State. His sermon drove Jefferson to that doctrine. His persistent [illegible] to a State religion caused him to be stigmatized as an infidel. Mrs Madison was a communicant at the Episcopal Church. Her husband was not. Monroe was a member of an Episcopal parish, but not a communicant. John Quincy Adams, although a member of a Unitarian parish in Massachusetts, held a pew in the Second Presbyterian Church in Washington, of which he was a trustee, and there he worshiped until his death. In a violent snow storm I saw him walking to church, one Sunday, with the snow up to his [illegible] and he was one of the seven persons who composed the congregation that morning. He never communed in the church. General Jackson was a regular attendant on Sunday morning. He worshipped in the Second Presbyterian Church until his quarrel with the pastor about Mrs Eaton. He then left for the Four and-a-half Street Church and took his cabinet with him. He always came early and entered his pew, which was on the right side of the church as he entered. Earnest and devout attention he gave to the sermon. It was his custom, at the close of the sermon, to rise in his pew and make a very courteous bow to the minister, and then walk out, the audience waiting in their pews till he had reached the vestibule. Van Buren's home church at Kinderhook was Reformed Dutch. At Washington, when he went to church, he attended St John's (Episcopal) in the morning. Mrs Polk was a devout and earnest Christian woman, belonging to the Presbyterian Church.

"Mr. Polk accompanied his family every Sunday morning to the Four-and-a-half street Church. Mrs. Polk usually attended the Second Presbyterian Church in the afternoon, where she held a pew. The President seldom accompanied her at the second service. General Taylor was not a professor of religion. When he attended church he sat in the President's pew at St John's. President Pierce was a member of the Congregational society, in Concord, New Hampshire, but not of the church. He was very regular in his attendance at the Presbyterian Church on F street, near the White House. This was his religious home during his long Senatorial life. He was not a member of the church. He came to worship usually on foot and unattended. His pew was on the side, about two thirds of the way from the door. He usually walked up the aisle with a cat like step, went to the extreme end of the pew, curled himself up in the corner, and seldom moved till the service closed. He rarely spoke to any one, and hastened from the church to the White House. Mrs Lincoln was a communicant at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church. Mr. Lincoln was not. But he was a regular attendant at worship. Johnson seems to have no religious home, but rather inclined to the Lutherans. General Grant is not a professor of religion. He is a trustee of the National Methodist Church at Washington, and is a frequent attendant on the preaching of that church."

Climatic Change.

The Nevada (Cal.) Transcript, talking about wet and dry seasons in that State, remarks:

"The records of the country show that years of [illegible] with years of dryness, and when the clouds fail to shed their rain, the country suffers from thirst in a deplorable degree. Cattle die, and even vegetation perishes or maintains life with a struggle. In cutting away the timber on our mountains we find by an examination of the concentric circles that there have been periods when for two or three years or more the trees barely lived. They made no growth. If by counting the concentric circles from the bark inward, it should appear that all or nearly all the wood presents the same appearance after the same number of circles had been numbered in each, we would say at once that the fact was owing to a [illegible]. If we saw that by this wooden [illegible] of the trees, say about twenty five years ago, the timber over a large district barely lived during a period of two or three years, we should conclude that the country had been subject at the time to terrible drouth, and this conclusion would accord with our own experience on the coast. It must also be noticed that most of the oak timber on our mountains is young. Pines [illegible] almost without moisture, but the oak must have more. Is it a forced supposition that the young [illegible] everywhere noticeable date their germination back only to the first years of moisture that succeeded a period of excessive drouth in which anterior forests perished?"

Many years ago, a young Universalist clergyman traveled westward to attend a convention of his brethren. He took the precaution to carry a vial of cayenne in his pocket to sprinkle his food with, as a preventive to fever and ague. The convention met, and at dinner time, a tall Hoosier observed the parson as he seasoned his meat and addressed him thus —

"Stranger, I'll thank you for a leetle of that 'ere red salt, for I am kind o cur'ous to try it."

"Certainly," replied the parson, "but you will find it very powerful, be careful how you use it."

The Hoosier took the proffered vial, and feeling himself proof to a quantity of raw whiskey, thought that he could stand the "red salt" with impunity, and accordingly sprinkled a junk of beef rather bountifully with it, and forthwith introduced it into his capacious mouth. It soon began to take hold. He shut his eyes, and his features began to writhe, denoting a very inharmonious condition physically. Finally he could stand it no longer. He opened his mouth and screamed "fire!"

"Take a drink of cold water, from the jug," said the parson.

"Will that put it out?" asked the martyr, suiting the action to the word.

[illegible] the unfortunate man began [illegible] to the parson, his [illegible], exclaimed

"Stranger, you call yourself a 'Varselist, I believe?"

"I do," mildly answered the parson.

"Wal, I want to know if you think it is consistent with your belief to go about with hell-fire in your breeches-pocket?"

About one quarter of the track of the New York and New Haven road has been relaid with steel rails. While the rail itself is very much harder, the manner of laying it on the road bed is firmer, and the effect is to make the trains run steadier, and to diminish the noise of the cars at least one half. Another quarter of the road will be relaid with steel during the coming year, and the balance [illegible] will be supplied at this rate till the whole is finished.

FOR 1869.

Nineteenth Volume!

Only $3.00 a Year.

By common consent, the OREGONIAN ranks first among the papers published in the Northwest. It is the oldest paper in the State, and its circulation and influence are greater than that of any other two papers combined. As a journal of enterprise in gathering the latest intelligence, and in giving in each issue a larger amount and greater variety of reading matter it has no competitor. It is thoroughly identified with this city and State and neighboring Territories, where the number of its readers and its influence are constantly increasing.

An unflinching advocate of sound Union principles, it at the same time pays special attention not only to MATTERS OF GENERAL INTEREST, but to every thing of moment to the great

Agricultural, Manufacturing, AND MINING INTERESTS,

And to the development of the resources and settlement of the Northwest.

Its columns contain a carefully prepared digest of

Its Literary and General Selections are from the best sources.

are furnished every week, giving the Financial, Dry Goods, Hardware, and General Market Reports of Portland, and the latest reports by Telegraph of the San Francisco and New York markets. These reports are acknowledged to be the most accurate published in the State.

In every department it will be as it has been, the foremost in the State in the field of journalism. Being firmly established, it will go forward with confidence, making new plans for improvement and usefulness, and hopes to gain increased circulation and support.
